PectaSol-C Modified Citrus Pectin

The Only Clinically-Proven Modified Citrus Pectin (MCP)

Pectin, found in the peel and pith of citrus and apple fruits, is an important part of our daily diet that can offer benefits related to fiber intake. However, it is not to be confused with PectaSol-C® Modified Citrus Pectin (MCP). Due to its low molecular weight, PectaSol-C can enter the bloodstream where it provides a wide array of important health benefits at the cellular level – something regular pectin cannot do.*

The only MCP with Numerous Clinically Proven Health Benefits

PectaSol-C is the only MCP with nearly two decades of scientific substantiation showing its unique benefits for cellular health, cardiovascular health, immune health, detoxification and more. In fact, PectaSol-C has provided tens of thousands of people with a simple and all-natural method for supporting their overall health, because of its ability to naturally block the harmful effects of the protein, Galectin-3.*

The Science of PectaSol-C and Galectin-3

Over the last decade, scientists and researchers have shown that cellular, cardiovascular, and circulatory health are critically affected by elevated levels of the protein Galectin-3. Therefore, finding a way to maintain healthy Galectin-3 levels is of utmost importance in supporting health and longevity. Due to its unique molecular structure, PectaSol-C easily enters the blood stream to bind and block excess Galectin-3 throughout the entire body. Through this mechanism, PectaSol-C offers natural and powerful support for healthy Galectin-3 levels.*

Other MCP's on the Market

Since Modified Citrus Pectin is not a carefully defined term in the supplement industry, beware that there are multiple citrus pectin products that will not have the same effect as seen in published studies. That's because, unlike PectaSol-C, the molecules they contain are simply too large to be easily absorbed and used by your body.*

Who Benefits from PectaSol-C?

Leading health authorities world-wide recommend PectaSol-C as a health supplement because of its research, versatility, safety and effectiveness. When used daily it can be a gentle and powerfully effective way to support your health and longevity naturally. This puts PectaSol-C at the leading edge of nutritional advances proven to support your health on a daily basis.*
